MEDICAL STUDENT ADMISSIONS COMMITTEE

Description and Charge

1. The charge of the Admissions Committee is to select a sufficient number of well qualified students that best represent the mission of the Keck School of Medicine.
2. The Committee has the complete and final authority to evaluate and admit medical students. This authority extends to all joint degrees of which the MD is a part and includes admission with advanced standing.
3. The selection of students will not be influenced by political or financial factors.
4. The Committee reports to the Vice Dean for Medical Education (or other responsible administrator designated by the Dean)

Membership

1. Faculty and students who have previously served on the Evaluation and Recruitment Committee are elected to serve on the Admissions Committee. An open call is made to the faculty at large for participation as a member of the Evaluation and Recruitment Committee.
2. The Committee has a minimum membership of 15 faculty and 8 students.
3. A faculty member of the committee is recommended by the Associate Dean for Admissions and approved by the Vice Dean for Medical Education to serve as the committee chair.
4. Committee members serve one-year terms and may be re-elected with no maximum term of service.
5. A Waitlist Subcommittee is comprised of three faculty members of the Admissions Committee who have formal delegated authority from the Admissions Committee to move individuals from the waitlist to the accepted list based on criteria approved by the Admissions Committee.
6. The Associate Dean for Admissions serves as an ex officio member of the Admissions Committee.

Actions

1. The Admissions Committee is divided into working groups that evaluate each interviewed applicant’s complete file.
2. A faculty member is assigned on a rotating basis to serve as chair of a working group.
3. Recommendations from working groups are sent to the full Admissions Committee for vote.
4. A candidate receiving a simple majority vote of accept by a quorum of Admissions Committee members are offered admission. The majority of votes to accept must come from faculty members. A quorum consists of one-half of the members of the committee.
5. A sufficient number of acceptances to fill the class (as calculated by the Associate Dean for Admissions) will be offered. If waitlisted candidates are needed they will be reviewed by the Waitlist Subcommittee and the Waitlist Subcommittee will extend any offer of admission.
6. The Associate Dean for Admissions organizes, facilitates and executes the decisions of the committee.

Procedures

1. All applicants whose primary application has been verified and their MCAT scores posted by AMCAS within the posted deadline dates are invited to complete the secondary application.
2. Screeners are assigned to review applicants after they are trained in the review of the primary and secondary application with emphasis on selecting students with the desired attributes defined by the Keck School of Medicine.
3. Applicants who receive the highest ratings from the screeners are chosen for interview.
4. Each interviewee’s application material and interview evaluations are reviewed by a working group of the Admissions Committee.
5. The working group members each, independently, review and render their decisions (accept, defer, or reject) and provide supporting comments.
6. All members of the working groups meet in-person to review and discuss their respective group’s applicants and finalize their recommendations.
7. The working groups’ recommendations are presented to and voted upon by the entire admissions committee.
